Introduction

Creating effective prompts is one of the most powerful ways to get meaningful, actionable answers when analysing your brand identity. For many MSMEs, the challenge is not just knowing what to ask—it is knowing how to ask it in a way that sparks fresh ideas, practical solutions, and strategic clarity.

Prompting Framework and Hacks

Effective AI usage depends not just on the tools themselves, but on how clearly and precisely we communicate our intentions. Well-crafted prompts help AI understand the context, adopt the right perspective, and deliver outputs that are actionable, accurate, and relevant. The following guide outlines a structured approach to designing prompts that improve AI performance, balance speed with depth, and ensure results are aligned with your objectives. The following is the guide on how to prompt better:

1. Define the Purpose

- Clearly state why you are using the AI for this task. Include the objective you want to achieve and the problem you want to solve.
- Example: “The purpose is to analyze market research data from Southeast Asia and generate a concise report highlighting key trends and insights for executive decision-making.”

2. Define the Role

- Specify the perspective or expertise the AI should assume to provide more accurate responses.
- Example: “You are an experienced market analyst specializing in ASEAN markets with expertise in social media trends, digital adoption, and AI readiness.”

3. Provide Instructions

- Give detailed step-by-step instructions, including context, constraints, or examples if needed.
- Example:
 - Review the provided dataset.
 - Extract top 5 trends per country.
 - Compare against last year’s data.
 - Highlight opportunities and risks.

4. Define the Output Manner

- Specify the format, style, and level of detail required.
- Example: “Provide the findings in a clear, structured table format, followed by a 3–5 sentence summary per country. Use professional, concise language suitable for an executive report.”

5. State the Effort to Balance Speed and Depth

- Indicate whether you prefer faster responses or more in-depth analysis.
- Example: “Focus on accuracy and insight rather than speed, but keep each country summary under 5 sentences to maintain brevity.”

A complete prompt example will be: “The purpose is to analyze market research data from Southeast Asia and generate a concise report highlighting key trends and insights for executive decision-making. You are an experienced market analyst specializing in ASEAN markets with expertise in social media trends, digital adoption, and AI readiness. You can (1) Review the provided dataset, (2) Extract top 5 trends per country, (3) Compare against last year’s data, and (4) Highlight opportunities and risks. Provide the findings in a clear, structured table format, followed by a 3–5 sentence summary per country. Use professional, concise language suitable for an executive report. Focus on accuracy and insight rather than speed, but keep each country summary under 5 sentences to maintain brevity.”

Advanced Hacks to Increase Accuracy

1. Truth Detector: Force the AI to rate its confidence in its claims.
2. AI Prompt Helper: Get the AI to help you write better prompts.
3. Model Selection: Choose the right AI model for the job.
4. Self-Improvement Loop: Ask the AI to critique its own work and rewrite it.
5. The Four-Word Miracle: Add "Think step by step" to strategic or complex prompts.
6. Priming Trick: Ask a broader question first to activate the AI's relevant knowledge.

Analysing Brand Identity Prompts

A strong brand identity is more than just a logo or a catchy slogan— it is the complete impression your business leaves on customers every time they interact with you. For many MSMEs, building and maintaining that identity can feel overwhelming, especially when you're managing multiple priorities.

Whether you are just starting, refining your image, or expanding into new markets, these prompts will help you uncover what makes your brand unique, connect more deeply with your audience, and stand out in a crowded marketplace.

50 Beginner-Friendly Analysing Brand Identity Prompts (with Tips)

- Prompt: Act as a brand strategist and list the top decisions I must make to create a strong, memorable brand for my business.

Tip: Start with your mission, target audience, and 2–3 values you want your brand to stand for.
- Prompt: Act as a marketing coach and help me write a one-sentence elevator pitch that clearly explains what makes my business special.

Tip: Write a one-sentence “elevator pitch” in plain language anyone can understand.
- Prompt: As a brand designer, outline the steps I should take to choose colours, fonts, and a logo style that people will remember.

Tip: Pick colours and fonts that match your brand's personality, and keep designs simple.
- Prompt: Act as a social media consultant and give me a plan to use online marketing to grow brand awareness for my business.

Tip: Post helpful, engaging content regularly on the platforms your customers use most.
- Prompt: Act as a copywriting expert and create a simple brand tone guide so my website, social media, and materials sound consistent.

Tip: Create a short “tone guide” with words, phrases, and style you want to use consistently.

6. Prompt: Act as a storytelling coach and help me write my business story so it connects emotionally with my audience.
Tip: Share why you started, the problem you solve, and how you've helped real people.
7. Prompt: Act as a market researcher and guide me through analysing my top 5 competitors to choose the right brand direction.
